The Carmel Pine Cone

With membership reaching a new high of 60 young musicians—sixth grade through junior college age—the Monterey County Symphony Youth Orchestra will give the first concert of its third season on Sunday afternoon in Salinas High School auditorium. Above a youthful player blows his horn in a recent rehearsal. He is Michael Fitzsimmons. Behind him is Richard Maness.

Organized by Symphony Conductor and Director of Music John Gosling in 1963, the orchestra has set a high talent standard since its inception. Mr. Gosling, working closely with public school music department heads throughout the county, emphasizes the value of public performances; ensemble sight reading of classical and baroque scores; and professional discipline for the young instrumentalists.

In addition to individual programs given in schools throughout the county, the Youth Orchestra went on tour in the spring of 1965 and appeared in eight school areas and performed for some 5,000 students.

All members of the Youth Orchestra may audition for eligibility in the senior symphony orchestra. On the platform on Sunday afternoon will be young instrumentalists from Carmel, Carmel Valley, Pacific Grove, Monterey, Seaside, Marina, Salinas, San Juan Bautista and Pebble Beach.

The widely varied program, including music of Bach, Beethoven, Handel and Tschaikowski has been designed by Conductor Gosling to appeal to all ages. The concert will be open to the public without charge.

Contract Signed For Construction Of New Theatre

Construction is expected to start on a 409-seat movie theatre and shop development at the southwest corner of Dolores and Seventh as soon as the present storm ends, according to Tom Graff, one of the partners in the venture.

A contract has been signed with Geyer Construction Company for the complex which, it is estimated, will cost $150,000.

Carmel's Village Theatre is the name Mr. Graff and his partners, Ed Dickinson and Nick Pecora, have chosen for the new motion picture house which they expect to open in late March or early April. They have a ground lease for the 80 x 94 foot theatre site from the owners of the land, Jack Martin, Arthur Strasburger, James Doud and Howard Brunn. Harold Nielsen owns the 20-foot strip of land facing on Seventh Avenue on which the shop development will be located. Mr. Nielsen will operate this part of the project.

Tom Graff says that films shown at the new theatre will be entertainment for the entire family. He is a Carmel resident and has been in the theatre business for 25 years. At one time he operated the Carmel Theatre on Ocean Avenue, a movie house which was demolished some years ago. He also operated the Golden Bough Theatre motion picture business for some years. Most recently he has had a theatre which showed films in San Jose. His partner, Ed Dickinson, is a Carmel resident, and the third partner in the theatre venture, Mr. Pecora, is an elementary school principal in Fresno who owns land here and plans to live in Carmel when he retires.

Ocean Ave. Mall Idea Arises Again

A request that Ocean Avenue be converted into a pedestrian mall during the summer months was considered by the Carmel Planning Commission yesterday afternoon and the proposal was placed on the commission's abeyance calendar for further exploration and study.

In a letter, Lewis and Catherine Meehan asked that consideration be given to closing Ocean Avenue each year to vehicular traffic during the months of July, August and September, the peak of the summer tourist season. They suggested that shuttle bus service, such as exists in Williamsburg, Virginia, be instituted to take persons from parking areas to the mall.

Planning Director Floyd Adams reported to the commission that the idea of an Ocean Avenue mall had arisen first in the late 1920s, and received further discussion

Editor's Column

Last week, Warren Edwards, principal of Carmel High School, appealed to members of the board of education of the Carmel Unified School District for aid in helping what he called disenchanted students. These are the teen-agers who are not reached by the predominately college-directed instruction at the high school.

Mr. Edwards estimates approximately 15 percent of the 902 students at Carmel High fall into the disenchanted group. These over 100 students attend class in body only, or drop out before they are 18 years of age to join the ranks of unskilled workers. Many fall afoul of the law.

The State of California has adopted a program of half-day compulsory education for all boys and girls, 16 and 17 years of age, who for some reason have not completed high school.

Last week, the board of education appointed Mr. Edwards to be principal of this state and federal-supported continuation education program in the Carmel district, also a man teacher to assist him.

FREE CHEST X-RAYS

The mobile unit of the Monterey County Health Department will be parked near the post office from 1-5 p.m. on Tuesday to give chest x-rays, free of charge, to Carmel residents.

New Subdivisions In Carmel Area

The Carmel planning commission, yesterday afternoon, found additional subdivision plans referred to them by the county planning commission for Rancho Mar Monte were acceptable. The average size of lots was over one acre in an area zoned for one residence per acre development. The lots varied in size from eight-tenths of an acre to two and one-half acres with one five-acre lot.

This subdivision, requested by Mrs. Raymond Smith, will be considered by the county commission on Wednesday at 11:25 a.m. Other tentative subdivisions before the commission the same morning will be Seameadow in the Rocky Point area submitted by Everett Banfield and Heppenstall subdivision, Carmel Highlands. Carmel Views subdivision will be reconsidered.

A hearing will be given at 2:10 p.m. for a use permit requested by Harold Treacy for a trout farm, trailer camp, airport and art gallery in the Limekiln Creek area south of Big Sur.

Teachers From 18 Countries Will Visit And Observe At Carmel High School Tomorrow

Thirty-six teachers from 18 foreign countries arrived here today and will remain through Saturday as guests of the World Affairs Council of the Monterey Peninsula. During their three-day visit they will tour the Defense Language Institute at the Presidio of Monterey, spend half a day at Carmel High School, and be guests of honor tomorrow night at a dinner at La Playa Hotel.

The teachers are in residence at San Francisco State College under the international teacher development program administered cooperatively by the U.S. Department of State and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

At Carmel High School tomorrow, Principal Warren Edwards has arranged for the visiting teachers to have a "grand tour" of the school. Divided into groups of two and three, each group will have, as a guide, one of the members of a senior English class. They will visit various classes and observe instruction methods employed at the high school, then have lunch at the automated cafeteria.

Tomorrow evening, the teachers will have Fritz Hartung as their host at the La Playa Hotel dinner which will feature the teachers as entertainers. Their program will include Haitian and Turkish songs, music by a Paraguayan pianist, a Bolivian dance, a Brazilian quartet, and a performance titled "Far Far East", by Japanese, Korean and Chinese players.

Petitions Against Rezoning Circulate In Mission Fields

Petitions protesting a zoning change of River Inn property are being circulated for signatures in the Mission Fields area. These will be presented to the Monterey County Board of Supervisors on Tuesday morning when the matter comes up for consideration at 10:30 o'clock.

Owners of River Inn, situated on the north bank of the Carmel River beside the Highway One bridge, have requested a change from R-3 to R-4 density zoning to allow construction of 74 apartments in addition to present motel development.

H. R. Fonseca and Howard Bucquet of Carmel and Myron Etienne and Firmin Gryp of Salinas, members of Carmel River Inn Developers, are requesting the zoning change.

The decision to circulate the petitions was made following a meeting last week.

New Conservation Magazine Decries Humble Oil Refinery

A new quarterly magazine devoted to keeping California beautiful and productive has made its first appearance under the auspices of California Tomorrow, a non-profit educational organization.

Editor of the new publication, named Cry California, is William Bronson. He says he hopes the magazine will play a part in the conservation efforts of the future by making a regular, constructive assessment of the total California environment, identifying major problems and alerting the people of this state to the need for further action, public and private, to turn back the forces of pollution and destruction.

He adds, "We are concerned with the beauty of our forests and parks, the orderly development of our cities, the preservation of our agriculture, clean air and water."

A special department of commentary in the magazine, Argonaut's Notebook, draws attention to the action of the Monterey County Board of Supervisors in approving construction of a Humble Oil and Refining Company refinery at Moss Landing despite considerable public opposition.

"One of the California's greatest assets is the seacoast and it is becoming increasingly clear that problems of protecting the seacoast from the onslaught of special interests constitutes a major conservation front," Cry California declares.

The first issue of Cry California has articles on Los Angeles' Elysian Park; the AEC service line to Stanford University which Woodside has fought; brilliant electric signs along highways; garbage disposal; logging; and the plight of Lake Tahoe.

The magazine predicts that Lake Tahoe will be corrupted "beyond the economic and technical ability of this generation to redeem it," unless forceful federal action is taken soon.

Articles for the first issue of Cry California were contributed by Mr. Bronson, Harrison M. King, Richard Reinhardt, Bruce Brugman, Michael McCloskey, Van Herbert and Michael Harris.

Girl Scouts Are Selling Calendars

Girl Scouts of the Monterey Bay Peninsula are now selling calendars to neighbors and friends.

The 1966 Girl Scout calendar is appointment-type with attractive colored pictures of Girl Scout activities. It is produced by the Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. and is being sold in this area for 50 cents per calendar.

According to Mrs. Olan Whisenhunt, council calendar sale chairman, the sale is primarily a troop money raising project to meet the need for funds to carry out troop activities. A profit of 20 cents per calendar sold by troop members during the annual sale goes to the troop's treasury.

Survey Shows Need On Peninsula For Psychiatric Aid

There is urgent need for more psychiatric and counseling services in Monterey County a survey just completed by the Monterey County Association for Mental Health shows.

Long concerned about adequate psychiatric services for citizens who have emotional problems, directors of the association polled doctors, lawyers, ministers, social workers and others who work directly with people as to the need for six services.

Receiving the largest number of positive responses on an overall basis was the need for psychiatric out-patient treatment services on the Monterey Peninsula for both children and adults with emotional difficulties.

In the Monterey Peninsula area, the first priority clearly went to out-patient psychiatric treatment services for children and adults. Of 166 responding, 158 answered positively, with only four giving a negative response. Of the 158 positive replies, 119 marked the need urgent and 30 underlined this.

Of the Peninsula people polled, 126 said there was a need for emergency and in-patient treatment services for adults at Community Hospital and only 13 said there was no such need. Sixty persons said the need was urgent.

One hundred and thirty-six Peninsula persons polled said there was a need for psychiatric treatment services for selected patients discharged from mental hospitals; eight said there was no such need.

One hundred and thirty-two Peninsula residents said 24-hour care was needed as compared to 25 who said it was not.

Full text of the survey is available from the Mental Health Association office at P. O. Box 1268, Monterey.

NO GARBAGE PICK-UP ON THANKSGIVING DAY

The John Roscelli Corporation announces there will be no pick-up service on Thanksgiving Day. Refuse of customers on the Thursday route will be collected on Wednesday after the trucks have completed their regular route.

The offices of the Roscelli Corp. have been moved 25 feet west on Eighth Street near San Carlos.

Over $1 Million Paid For Ranch In Valley

A group headed by the Sutter Hill Company of Palo Alto, and Belton K. Johnson of Corpus Christi, Texas, have purchased the 4,300 acre Holthouse Ranch located in upper Carmel Valley. The purchase price was reported to be in excess of $1,000,000.

The Sutter Hill Company is a diversified investment company, with operations throughout California.

Mr. Johnson, a director and part owner of Texas' well-known King Ranch, will operate the property as a showplace for Santa Gertrudis cattle and registered quarter horses for distribution in the Far West, Hawaii, and the Philippines.

The Santa Gertrudis breed, originally developed on the King Ranch, was the first breed of beef cattle developed in this country. The registered quarter horses will also carry predominately King Ranch blood lines. These animals were bred primarily for cattle and range work, but have since become widely accepted for pleasure riding purposes.

Mr. Johnson stated that the Carmel Valley ranch property combines all the qualities necessary for a successful operation, and indicated that the operation will be under way by mid- 1966.

Overheard in the post office.

Retired Doctor. "Now that you have sold out your business, what do you find to do?"

Retired business man. "Find to do? You've no idea what I'm finding out that I missed. Why, just this morning, walking up the path I heard a bird sing, so beautifully, I had to stop and listen. I went back into the house to tell my wife about it. I hadn't noticed anything like it for 30 years, my head was so buzzing with business."

Retired Doctor. "How interesting. Since I quit, I myself notice more humming birds, butterflies, gorgeous flowers in pastel shades. I waited too long to hear the birds sing; their high notes are now out of my range. But the world is still beautiful isn't it?"

Among life's little confusions is the dial on every telephone. For some reason the makers of telephones decided that the alphabet should be written, counterclockwise, as CBAFEDIHGLKJMNOP RSTUVWXY and no Z or Q. Just imagine some person, maybe a foreigner, picking up the alphabet in that order and don't be surprised, either, if some very intelligent child memorizes it that way, too!

Dorothy von Meier, chairman of the Carmel Planning Commission is due home at the end of this month after a trip around the world. She has faithfully reported to other commissioners, in verse, on the architectural aspects and community characters of cities she has visited. Below are two of her reports from Italy.

MILAN

Milan is famous for its lovely chiesa
Made of stone, but looking like lace-a
Monumental piece of Gothic Art;
Sitting there, a world apart
From the glory and opulence of La Scala's
Where Caruso and Patti; Pinza and Callas
Poured forth notes of golden beauty—
Ralentendo, glissando and alla tutti.
Then there's Milan the industral giant
Of steel and glass and plastics pliant;
With motors running and turbines turning
Every hour, billions of lire earning
To make a share of Italy's part
In the European Common Mart.

FLORENCE

Florence is richness beyond all measure
Around each corner is golden treasure
Michelangelo's David stands serene
Bathed in light through a marble screen
The Uffizi's a store of magnificent mellow
Madonnas by Lippi, Cimabue, Donatello.
Leonardo's genius vies with Machiavelli,
Ghiberti's golden doors and Boticelli.
Here Savonarola's tongue of flame
Lit a torch against Medici's name.
Dante, Petrarch and Boccaccio
Their genius flowered beside the Arno.
No time is enough to see all the city
The Duoma and the rich Palace of the Pitti
The Piazza of the Signoria still holds
Perseus' statue and David's molds
And in the Vecchio shops by day and night
Today there are vipers loose in the street
I don't want vipers around my feet
So—in order to avoid a viper's bite,
I'm staying in my albergo at night.

"Church Art of Ethiopia," current show at the gallery of the Monterey Peninsula chapter of the American Federation of Arts, will be the colorful background setting for a program of colored slides of Ethiopia presented by Dr. Linden G. Leavitt Jr., this evening at 8:00 p.m.

Dr. Leavitt was invited by Emperor Haile Selassie to establish a creative arts center to preserve traditional Ethiopian art forms and to introduce western art techniques in his country. During these two years, Dr. Leavitt was dean of the university extension at Haile Selassie University in Addis Ababa. In addition to his work with Ethiopian artists, he traveled extensively throughout the empire collecting both contemporary and old examples of folk art. He is now well-known for his large collection of Ethiopian art, probably the largest in the United States.

Bennett Bradbury of Carmel Highlands is having a one-man show of his marines through November at the Zantman Art Galleries on Sixth Avenue. This artist derives his inspiration from the ocean. The moods of sea, rock and sky he interprets on canvas.

"The sea is for me a symbol of the infinite, of the changing and the changeless," he says.

Since 1952, he has had yearly one-man shows at the Grand Central Art Galleries in New York. His paintings have been bought for the collections of the St. Louis Museum, the Cleveland Museum in Indiana, Columbus Museum in Georgia, by companies in this country, Venezuela and Canada, also clubs and private collectors including the Shah of Iran, Huntington Hartford and Paul Getty Jr.

Included in his current local show are paintings of the coast both north and south of Carmel.

Pine Needles

Outside the Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club on Saturday afternoon rain clouds hid the sun but inside fabulous many-faceted jewels shone brilliantly on gorgeously gowned models who paraded on the gold draped runway during the Symphonie d'Elegance, annual fashion show luncheon presented by the Symphony Guild to benefit the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra.

Precious gems, valued at over $1 million, were displayed in fabulous settings by five models, Mrs. Charles O'Gara, Mrs. Palmer Beaudette, Mrs. Barbara Tripp, Mrs. Lynn Mack and Miss Anne Walker. They first wore simple black dresses to display the gems, then reappeared in couturier model evening gowns of an elegance to equal their jewelry.

Fashions to wear from dawn till dark by ladies of taste, with almost limitless pocketbooks, were displayed by the same five models and 17 others while Mrs. Kenneth S. Walker described their apparel. She, too, wore some of the expensive jewels on her elegant black suit. And, while the models displayed examples of the jewelers' artistry, grim guards stood watch.

Mrs. Carl E. Menneken, Symphony Guild president, welcomed the several hundred spectators and thanked Mrs. Thomson J. Hudson, general chairman of the fashion show and simultaneous domino tournament at the Mark Thomas, for her efforts.

Mrs. William Lewis and Mrs. Donald Scanlon selected the models who were, in addition to those already mentioned, Mrs. Ronald Jesberg, Mrs. W. E. Ricker, Mrs. H. V. Alward, Mrs. Lucinda Lloyd Williams, Mrs. Jack J. Miller, Mrs. James Glaser Jr., Mrs. Edward Westlake, Mrs. Charles Spangenberger Jr., Mrs. Richard Long, Mrs. Robert Hill, Mrs. John Bohlman, Mrs. Bruce Meyer, Mrs. Richard Dormody, Mrs. Robert Ames, Mrs. John Gosling, wife of the Monterey County Symphony's conductor, and two teenagers, Sue Lloyd and Pamela Talbot.

Stilwell of Carmel Point, widow of the late General Joseph W. Stilwell, and his sister, Mrs. E. F. Easterbrook, wife of Major General E. F. Easterbrook, Deputy Sixth Army Commanding General.

Now commanding general of the John F. Kennedy Special Warfare Center at Fort Bragg, North Carolina, he emphasized that his comments on the situation in Southeast Asia were based on observations made while assigned as commanding general of the U.S. Army Support Group Vietnam from 1962 to 1964.

"If we walk out of this situation now," General Stilwell said, "the entire continent would go and it would not take long."

Using colored slides to illustrate his lecture, he provided a background of geography and history. "Communism has no roots in Vietnam except in force and terror," he stated, pointing out that, in 1964, Saigon's population increase of a million over the year before was caused by the influx to the city of peasants from regions where Viet Cong terrorist activities were a problem. The general added that this population trend has stopped and morale and efficiency are now higher, although one of the major problems the military has to overcome is fear of the Viet Cong.

General Stilwell, who has earned 22 Oak Leaf Clusters to the Air Medal (each cluster representing participation in 25 combat missions), had favorable comments on the effectiveness of tactical helicopter operations.

In the question period following his hour and a half presentation, he said that completed victory in Vietnam will require a combination of military, economic and political activities.

While in the area, General Stilwell and his sister were guests at their mother's home. Before returning to Fort Bragg, the general traveled to Southern California to speak to colleagues of his brother, Dr. Benjamin W. Stilwell, at Claremont General Hospital, and to the National Guard in San Diego.

Cradle Additions

John Kent Lawson's birthday will be easy to remember, since he arrived on Halloween. Born at Community Hospital, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Lawton of Carmel Valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Davis, also of Carmel Valley, have named their new daughter Laura Janene. She was born on November 3 at Community Hospital, which was also the birthplace of Lisa Alleen Brau on November 5. Lisa's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brau of Carmel.

Naval Service Begins

The latest young Carmelite about to fulfill his service obligation is Jay Miller, who leaves Saturday to report for Naval duty at San Diego. A 1964 graduate of Carmel High School, Jay attended Monterey Peninsula College and worked last winter and summer at the Heavenly Valley resort area of Lake Tahoe.

Like most parents in similar circumstances, Jack and Ione Miller will see their son off at the Monterey airport with mixed emotions.

The Starrs Are Parents

Carmel attorney Mark Starr and Mrs. Starr became first-time parents on November 3, when their son, Stefan David, was born at Community Hospital.

Word of Stefan's arrival was flashed to Braunschweig, Germany, where Mr. and Mrs. Kurt Kroeger were awaiting the news of their grandchild's birth, and to his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Starr, in New Rochelle, New York.

Our Wandering Youth

Bits and pieces of news from the college-age Carmelites who left last summer to try their luck in Europe trickle back to their bemused parents, along with occasional pleas for a little of the "green stuff."

Pat Lewis and Shelley Jones, the first to leave in August, found that their civil service ratings weren't of much use when they applied for jobs at Garmisch, Germany, with the Army civilian personnel office. They wound up in Berchtesgaden, with the humor and resiliency of youth, as chambermaids in a hotel reserved as a rest and recreational center for Army personnel in the Bavarian ski resort. Tongue in cheek, they often pretend they don't speak English, find they do well on 67 cents an hour because prices are comparable, and retire each evening to perfectly elegant rooms in the same hotel.

In Munich for the Oktoberfest, the two girls ran into several members of the group who left Carmel in September, among them Scott Forbes, Evelyn Jenkins and Mary Warmoth. In Munich, also, they visited former Carmel residents Colonel and Mrs. Arthur Black and relate that Marjorie Black is in school in Switzerland and Arthur Jr. is attending the University of Maryland in Munich.

Donna Seaver, Pat Crane and Pat Campbell were in Italy and Greece (where they nearly boarded a train for Istanbul by mistake) before traveling to Switzerland and a visit in Goldern with the Milton Mayers. The trio will return to the United States by plane from Paris this week. After a few days in Connecticut, they will take a train, via New Orleans, for the West Coast, planning to be home about the first of December.

Roger Diefendorf, who has been studying Spanish intensively and attended summer school in Guadalajara this year, plans to spend at least a month in Spain. Although Mike Bein began his trip with Roger, his present whereabouts is unknown to the Pine Cone's foreign correspondent.

In Athens, four of the travelers got such enthusiastic reports on Africa from fellow Americans that they have deserted Europe. Mary Warmoth and a girl from San Diego, and Scott Forbes and a boy from Santa Barbara took a boat to Alexandria last week. They intend to journey up the Nile and the boys, at least, are determined to cover the length of Africa, ending up in Capetown.

Gretchen Is Her Name

Gretchen is the name chosen by Mr. and Mrs. Joe E. Stoeltje for their first child, who was born at Monterey Hospital on October 9. The new baby's father is an architect with a Monterey firm and her mother has been a teacher in the Carmel schools.

Gretchen's grandparents are Dr. and Mrs. Joe Stoeltje of Beaumont, Texas, and Mr. and Mrs. Roger Smith of Rotan, Texas.

Cadet Promotion

Tim Fry is among 46 sophomore cadets in the Army Reserve Officers Training Corps at the University of Oregon who have received promotions to non-commissioned officer posts in the cadet brigade. A Carmel High School graduate, Tim is the son of Mrs. Marie V. Fry of Carmel and Alfred G. Fry of Pebble Beach.

Party For Domino Players

Among those at the cocktail party held at the Beach Club Friday night for contestants in the Domino Tournament benefitting the Monterey County Symphony were Mr. and Mrs. W. Dobson Kilduff, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Simpson, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bush Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Frank Work, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Hubbard, Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Roos Jr., Mr. and Mrs. William Durney, Mr. and Mrs. Richard K. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. John Bowles, Mr. and Mrs. Adolphus Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. James Ludwig, Mr. and Mrs. James Skinner, Mr. and Mrs. Mario Zabalaga, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Bates, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hately Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Jennison Heaton, Mr. and Mrs. William Hogan, Mr. and Mrs. Rolf Monsen, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Livingston Jr., Mr. and Mrs. John Lillenthal, Mr. and Mrs. James Mailliard, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred van Loben Sels, Mr. and Mrs. James Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Osborne, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Lewis.

Still others were Mr. and Mrs. Ray Ramsey, Mr. and Mrs. Thomson J. Hudson, Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Leonard, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Talbot, Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Scanlon, Dr. and Mrs. Edmund von Hasseln, Dr. and Mrs. Harry Lusignan, Stuyvesant Fish, Gorham, Knowles, Will Shaw, Mrs. Pillsbury Pringle, Robert Campbell.

Mr. and Mrs. Aime G. Michaud were hosts for the cocktail party and guests stayed on for a no-host dinner at the Beach Club, ending the evening with dancing at Club XIX.

Gloria Dodd Likes Spain

"I'm actually beginning to think in Spanish," writes Gloria Dodd from Valencia, Spain, where she is studying at the University of Valencia under the University of San Francisco program. Her reports of school life and the excursions which she and 30 other foreign students are able to take indicate great enthusiasm.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dodd of Monterey Peninsula Country Club, Gloria attended Carmel High School and graduated from Castilleja School in Palo Alto. Before her acceptance in the USF program, she was enrolled at Pacific University near Portland, Oregon.

Leyte Filipiniana Troupe Gave Rare Cultural Treat

By Jane Vial

Demonstrating the techniques of good modern ballet and the spontaniety of youth, the Leyte Filipiniana troupe presented a rare treat at King Hall of the Naval Postgraduate School on November 4. The gamut of material encompassed was truly extraordinary, particularly considering that the ages of the performers range from a mere 13 years of age to the early twenties.

Most impressive, to my mind, were the Philippine rural dances with which the program opened and, of these, the graceful execution of Binasuan, involving intricate patterns of movement while balancing filled wine glasses, was fascinating. No less so was Oasioas, a dance of western Pangasinan, in which night fishermen at sea wrap oil lamps in white transparent cloth to signal their companions on the seacoast. Birds in flight, birds waddling, were also represented in the "ballets," carried to a climax by percussion in Maglalatik, performed by men wearing a harness of coconut shells strapped on their backs, thighs, chests and hips, and carrying shells in their hands with which they beat a marvelous tattoo rhythm on themselves and their partners.

Contrary to the popularly conceived idea, as I learned, there are distinct variations of the "bamboo pole" dance. The Singkil, as it is known in Lanao Province, is performed only by women of royal blood and is distinguished by its use of criss-crossed poles. It takes its name from the bracelets worn by the dancers around their ankles. While dancing, the princess carries two jewelled fans, used in highly stylized fashion, and is sheltered throughout with an elaborate umbrella carried by the Dayang-Dayang. Milady moves in dignified yet sinuous and nimble movements. Considered pagan because of its Muslim influence, the Singkil is one of the more sophisticated dances of the "pagan tribes." Ifuago maidens, a Kalinga festival of tribal victories, Pangalay of Sulu—these and others evoke the primitive history of the people.

Ample evidence is shown, as it should be, of the Spanish influence in the Habanera Botolena, Polka Sala, Jota Pangasiana, Polkabal and La Jota Moncadena, which comprised the third portion of the evening's performance. And at this point, one could not help compare the influence of the Spanish on the Filipino with that on the Mexican—the adaptation of the native culture to its European conquerors.

Thus, Leyteniana, the final part of the company's concert, presented a sort of "Ballet Folklorico," not as polished, to be sure, but of equal interest.

A quiet dawn in a Leyte village breaks into a typical day, song interwoven with work, work with play, play with boisterous festivity and nonsense, all depicted through splendid choreography. And finally, the Tinikling Ha Bayo, in which the dancers showed their skill, endurance sprightliness and grace by nimbly hopping and leaping between the pestles (bamboo poles) that are clapped in time to music.

The colorful costumes were superb, faulty lighting detracting very little from the simple yet effective background settings. The voices of the performers, particularly those of the soloists, were of professional caliber; so, also, were the musicians playing, for the most part, native instruments.

For a community so concerned with its cultural future, the half-filled auditorium (medium-sized, at that) was another regrettable instance of indifference on the part of local citizens. In passing up Leyte Filipiniana, they missed a rare opportunity to enjoy and become acquainted with an important part of another people's culture.

Mabel Banfield

Private family services have been held in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea, Pacific Grove, for Mrs. Mabel Grace Banfield, who died Friday in a local hospital.

Born July 14, 1891, in Owatonna, Minnesota, Mrs. Banfield came to the Peninsula in 1947 with her late husband, Everett C. Banfield, a prominent resident of Carmel Highlands. Prior to a two-year residence in Colorado Springs, Mr. and Mrs. Banfield had made their home in Austin, Minnesota, where he was a well known banker before his retirement.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Kibler of Sea Ranch, California; a son Everett C. Banfield Jr. of Carmel; a brother, Ozni C. Brown of Pound Ridge, New York; and four grandchildren.

Funeral rites were followed by inurnment in Oakwood Cemetery of Austin, Minnesota. The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Friends wishing to make memorial contributions may do so to the Monterey County Cancer Society, P.O. Box 1028, Monterey.

HIGH TWELVE CLUB

The Reverend Wendell Ensor, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Pacific Grove, will deliver the "Thanksgiving Message" to the High Twelve Club on Monday at the regular luncheon meeting at Cypress Club on Lincoln Street. All members and sojourners of the fraternity are invited to attend.

DID YOU KNOW . . . .

Pacific Grove is called "Butterfly Town, U. S. A." because hundreds of thousands of Monarch butterflies annually migrate in winter to groves of trees in the city. What makes this event even more amazing is the fact that these fragile creatures travel in a body more than 3000 miles, and always seek the same grove of pine trees that their ancestors sought before them. There is an ordinance imposing a fine of $500.00 or a possible six months jail sentence for "molesting butterflies."

A butterfly Parade highlights the local celebration honoring the Monarchs, held on the last Saturday morning in October under he auspices of the elementary schools and P. T. A.

Last October 30 hundreds of costumed school children paraded through the main streets in a colorful welcome to returning Monarchs. Each school carried out a theme pertinent to the occasion.

You're always as close to home and the babysitter as the nearest telephone. When you can, it's a good idea to inform your babysitter of the telephone number where you'll be. That way, she can reach you immediately if she needs to. But if you're going to be several places during the evening, you can always call home to see if everything is all right. One of the best things about your phone is that it allows you to be in two places at once.

HAPPY THANKSGIVING from all of us at Pacific Telephone!

As a reminder . . . . reduced long distance rates will be in effect all day on Thanksgiving. For those of you planning to call family and friends outside the Monterey area we would suggest calling earlier in the day to avoid the evening rush and possible busy circuits typical of many holidays during the year.

Farm-City Week is November 19–25. And here's a timely reminder from the California Farm Bureau Federation: "California is now the greatest agricultural state in the U.S.A. Every year it produces more than $3.5 billion dollars' worth of food and other crops. And one out of every three jobs in California is related to agriculture." The phone has always been important on the farm—often it was one of the few regular contacts with the "outside world." We at the phone company are proud to have played a small part in the agricultural boom.

Wayfarer Pastor To Be Chaplain Of San Jose Hospital

Officials of The Church of the Wayfarer this week announced their pastor's acceptance of new responsibilities as the chaplain of the Good Samaritan Hospital in San Jose. Long interested in the sort of ministry which a hospital makes possible, the Reverend Lawrence Whitfield readily accepted the invitation of the hospital authorities to join their staff. He will not assume his new duties until January 1, when his successor will begin his ministry with the local congregation.

The Good Samaritan Hospital is a $6½ million institution which has been in operation less than two months. It has available for the care and treatment of its patients all of the most recently designed equipment and on its six floors provides 200 beds under the usual departments to be found in hospitals of its size. An additional wing makes possible the care of 25 psychiatric patients who will be housed in surroundings which will be supportive in their recovery. Four hundred doctors and dentists are associated with this new facility which anticipates that, even with the fast growth of the Santa Clara Valley, it will be able to provide adequate hospital care.

Sensing the inter-relatedness of religion and medical science the hospital authorities have made room in their planning for a chapel and a chaplain. Regular religious services will be held by Mr. Whitfield in the chapel, when it is completed in the early spring, and a considerable program of counseling for the patients, their families, and employees of the hospital will be included as a part of his job. He will be responsible for the co-ordination of seminars for doctors and clergymen in which the special skills and understanding of both can be shared for the benefit of each.

Bishop Donald Harvey Tippett, the head of Methodism in northern California, will be in consultation at once with the pastoral relations committtee of the local church to complete details for the transfer of a minister to Carmel's Church of the Wayfarer.

Medill Bair Busy In Washington, D.C., For Local Schools

Carmel Unified School District's superintendent, Medill Bair, had a busy time in Washington, D.C., last week in behalf of Carmel schools and as representative of the area comprised of Monterey, Santa Cruz, San Benito and San Luis Obispo counties.

Mr. Bair visited the U.S. Office of Education for the purpose of securing information concerning possible financial grants for the Carmel district and delivered the Title III request for funds for the four-county area. The planning grant, which would provide one-third million dollars for the remainder of the school year, is for the establishment of a supplementary education center whose purpose is to make it possible for the districts in the four counties to learn what is going on in education and to profit by the knowledge. According to Mr. Bair, County Superintendent of Schools Ed Coffin is largely responsible for preparing the request and working out plans for the implementation of the project.

Another purpose of his visit was to confer with representatives from the Fund for the Advancement of Education of the Ford Foundation concerning the $4,000 grant given to the Carmel district last year and possible future grants.

While in Washington, Superintendent Bair also attended meetings at the U.S.O.E., sponsored by Ohio State University, on "Strategy for Educational Change."

Theatres Of This Country Are Obsolete, Martin Flavin Says

BY DOROTHY REED

A renascence of the American theatre may be in the making conceded veteran playwright and novelist Martin Flavin at White Oaks last Sunday, though the title of his talk was "The Moribund Theater, or Death at 8:30." He was presenting the second in a series of discussions by persons of note in the theatre, coinciding with the opening of a new production at the training center.

With his long, seamed face, keen eyes and bristling eyebrows, Flavin looked the perfect model of a theatrical elder statesman. He sat in a wooden chair on the empty stage, next to a round, orange-draped table which held a glass and a crystal decanter, and asked to have the house lights raised so that he could see his listeners.

Describing the theatre in which he had "a passionate interest from childhood," the Pulitzer Prize-winner called it a six-way collaboration among author, producer, director, designer, actors and audience. The demise of the collaboration began in the late twenties, he said, when first silent movies, then talkies, stole away the audience. Of the more than 100 resident stock companies that provided a training-ground, source of employment, and retirement income for professional actors early in the century, and thereby constituted the backbone of the commercial theater, not one remained by 1950.

Furthermore, the physical theatres of the United States are "technically and mechanically obsolete," he observed, as well as uncomfortable and inconvenient for cast and audience alike.

In the light of these facts, he questioned the "professional training center" designation of White Oaks, asking where the professionals graduated from the school are to be employed. White Oaks managing director Tom Gruenewald responded with an off-the-cuff list of 25 cities which he said now have repertory companies with Equity contracts covering at least 30-week seasons. The quality of their productions is spotty, Gruenwald maintained, because of a scarcity of trained actors and technicians — which he and the rest of the White Oaks staff propose to supply.

Flavin replied, "It could be—it could be—," but stipulated that the hold of Broadway success over audience interest and consequently over theatre repertoires will have to be broken. "Everyone writes at least one play in his lifetime," he challenged. "Go out and develop some new playwrights."

Modern Dance Class At MPC Next Month

Nancy Lang, a dancer and teacher of modern dance who spent 25 years "commuting" between New York and California before settling on the West as being "way ahead of the East in creative development in all art forms," will conduct two master classes at Monterey Peninsula College on December 1.

Under the sponsorship of Miss Diane Smith of the MPC physical education department, Miss Lang will take groups of students at 11 a.m. and again at 7:30 p.m. in the Armory on campus.

Participants will be charged $1; observers will be admitted for 50 cents. Advance reservations may be made through Miss Smith at the college.

The master classes, planned for both students and teachers of the dance, will emphasize technical approaches and offer teaching materials in relation to modern dance repertory, according to Miss Lang who is preparing to open a studio in Carmel.

She has had extensive study and teaching experience in the studios of Martha Graham, May O'Donnell and Gertrude Shurr and has danced under such illustrious choreographers of the American dance world as Miss Graham, Hanya Holm and Lester Horton.

MPVS Gives $9,192 Tombola Mart Funds To Three Agencies

On November 5, the Monterey Peninsula Volunteer Services presented three beneficiaries with checks totaling $9,192.30, representing funds earned in the organization's one-day Tombola Mart. Announcement of the gifts was made by Miss Ruth Blanchard, president, to 120 members and guests attending the MPVS annual luncheon at Spindrift Restaurant. Miss Blanchard introduced representatives of the three agencies, Mrs. Margaret Coleman of Handicapped Activities Unlimited; John Williams, assistant administrator of Peninsula Community Hospital, for the cobalt cancer fund; and Mrs. John Gratiot of the Visiting Nurse Association.

Miss Irene Palmer, chairman of the event, who was given a standing ovation for her leadership, presented the MPVS liaison officers, Mrs. Allan Craig, Mrs. Wesley Heard and Mrs. C. Willis Fisher. They gave the checks to the agency representatives.

The business meeting continued with a report from Mrs. Wendell M. Coates, finance chairman, indicating that Christmas contributions had been made to the Monterey Peninsula Community Chest, the Senior Citizens Club of Seaside, the Monterey Institute for Speech and Hearing for purchase of a diagnostic audiometer and the Volunteer Auxiliary of the Monterey County Hospital.

Members were reminded that the meeting on December 3 will occur in the afternoon, to be followed by a tea honoring the new 1966 Board of Officers. Everyone was requested to bring a gift of a new Christmas toy to the December business meeting.

Andrew F. Huff

Requiem mass was celebrated Monday morning at Our Lady of Mount Carmel Catholic Church in Carmel Valley for Andrew Francis Huff, 15, who died Friday morning in a local hospital as the result of a gunshot wound in the head. The accidental shooting occurred November 10 on the Carmel Valley property of his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Boyd F. Huff. Dr. Huff is a professor at the U.S. Naval Postgraduate School.

With his family, the youth was a resident of Carmel Valley for the past seven years. He was born on April 10, 1950, in Oakland.

The Carmel High School student was well liked by adults as well as his contemporaries. He was active in competitive sports and particularly interested in outdoor activities, having planned to study forestry in the future. He served his church as an altar boy.

In addition to his parents, Andrew is survived by a brother, Jerome B. Huff, a student at the University of Arizona, and his grandparents.

Interment took place at Monterey Catholic Cemetery. The Mission Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Friends wishing to make memorial contributions may do so in the form of spiritual bouquets, or through donations to the Monterey USO.

GUS WEISER

Colonel Gus Weiser, whose wife, Fordre, is the daughter of the late Roy C. Fraties, former Carmel police chief, and of Mrs. Fraties, who lives in Carmel, has been awarded the seventeenth oak leaf cluster to the U.S. Air Force Medal at Ent Air Force Base in Colorado. He received the honor for meritorious achievement during military flights in Viet Nam.

At the new station, Colonel Weiser is chief of the aerospace environment division at Headquarters, Air Defense Command. This branch of the service provides defense against hostile aircraft and missiles.

Commissioned in 1942 through the aviation cadet program, Colonel Weiser served in the European theatre during World War II. He also is a Korean War veteran.

New Manager At Hearthstone

Mark Thomas has announced the appointment of a new manager for his Hearthtone Restaurant in Carmel. He is Eliot Loomis, a restaurateur with an excellent background in other quality establishments. He was food and beverage manager for the Sheraton Carlton in Washington, D.C. and for the Sheraton Belvedere in Baltimore. Later he managed the Howard Johnson Restaurant and motor lodge in Annapolis, Maryland.

Mr. Loomis came here from Annapolis with his wife, Susan, and four children and has bought a home in Carmel. Mrs. Loomis is from Lakeville on Cape Cod in Massachusetts. She is a graduate of Bryn Mawr College.

Mr. Loomis is a graduate of Haverford College in Philadelphia. He will continue the Hearthstone tradition of fine cuisine and service established by Mark Thomas and Mr. Loomis' predecessor, Gordon Reid, who has taken over the management of Mark Thomas' Outrigger Restaurant on Cannery Row, as vice-president and associate of Mark Thomas.

Oscar Wilde Play Opens Tomorrow At Studio Theatre

Two actresses of distinguished ability will star in Oscar Wilde's comedy, "The Importance of Being Earnest," opening tomorrow at the Studio Theatre-Restaurant in Carmel. Producers Betty Hackett and Royden Martin announce Betty Fowlston as Lady Bracknell and Gertrude Chappell as Miss Prism. Both of these accomplished actresses are well known to Peninsula theatregoers.

Mrs. Fowlston was last seen as the beloved spinster, Gert, in "Farewell, Farewell Eugene," the Studio's most successful production of last season.

Mrs. Chappell appeared last in the Golden Bough's immensely popular, "The Night of the Iguana."

Appearing as the Honorable Gwendolen Fairfax will be Layne Littlepage, who just finished a leading role in "The Hasty Heart." Miss Littlepage is studying drama at MPC with a dream of going on to the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art in London.

Cecily Cardew is portrayed by Shawn Guild, last seen at The Studio in the musical, "Once Upon A Mattress."

A seasoned actor, John Beckman Jr., who has a variety of roles to his credit, will represent the Reverend Canon Chasuble. Mr. Beckman has appeared every weekend on the Studio stage since last March.

Keith Decker, who has just returned from Europe after making an extensive survey of European theatre, will portray the sharp-witted Algernon.

Sean Tracy, appearing for the first time at the Studio, will make his acting debut in the delightful role of Jack.

"The Importance of Being Earnest" will play weekends at 8:30 p.m. with dinner being served from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m.

Authentic Flamenco Company From Spain To Perform At MPC

Cruz Luna and his authentic Theatre Flamenco company from Spain will perform in the Monterey Peninsula College music hall on December 5 as a benefit for the Monterey Peninsula branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Mr. Luna was the director of the Spanish Pavilion at the Seattle World's Fair and also performed there. He starred on the New York stage in "Ole! Ole!" and also has appeared on the concert stage in Australia and Mexico. His guitarist, Adonis Puertas, was born in Malaga and, at the age of 18, won a gold medal in a competition which included the best guitar players of Spain. He was engaged by Sol Hurok as soloist with the famous Ballet Espanol and has played in Mexico and South America.

Tickets for the MPC flamenco theatre performance are available at the Guitar Shop and in Carmel Valley at Plaza Linda Restaurant.

The Rhyming Philosopher

By Harry W. Fletcher

No. 131

With all the turmoil going on,
Like shooting wars still messing up the scenery,
You'd think that folks could get along
And not throw monkey wrenches in machinery.

Last week some cracker ran around
Petitioning the courts to legally utter:
How many peanuts should be found in sixteen ounces of somebody's peanut butter.

While on this caper let's decide
How much tomato goes in strawberry jelly;
How many pies to get pie-eyed;
Is there any vermifuge in vermicelli?

Too many people want their way
And stop at nothing 'til they get hysterical.
Don't be surprised if some fine day
Somebody tries to prove the world ain't spherical.

Bill Askew's Crew Spent Busy October

The city's department of streets and public works was busy during October, Superintendent William L. Askew Jr. reports.

Projects completed last month were the improvement of Junipero at Eleventh and the rebuilding of an embankment at Mission and Tenth. Landscaping was also installed at this corner where a steep sandy bank has been eroding for years.

Through October, the department maintained the city's beaches and parks, grounds at the library and city hall, also Sunset Center. Street signs were painted. Trees were sprayed, trimmed and otherwise cared for.

Other continuing October projects were cleaning and sweeping streets; assisting in cleanup of Sunset Center grounds; repairing retaining walls along the beach; maintaining sidewalks and equipment.

Last month the streets and public works department began a Sunset Center project on which they are continuing to work this month. This is the repair of driveways and sidewalk on San Carlos between Eighth and Tenth. Started this month will be the improvement of sidewalk on the Mission Street side of the center.

'Affairs Of Anatol' Has Brisk Air Of Wit, Style, High Polish

BY DOROTHY REED

"Affairs of Anatol," set in turn-of-the-century Vienna at the beginning of Freudian self-consciousness, opened last weekend at the White Oaks Theatre in Carmel Valley with a brisk air of wit, style, and high polish. Written by Arthur Schnitzler, a contemporary of Freud and like him a Viennese physician, the play details seven amorous episodes in the life of a young man. One is forced to suspect that the lovely ladies actually paraded through the doctor's office and he, turned playwright, re-routed them through Anatol's bedroom to provide a dramatic connection.

Serving as paramour to seven such various partners makes Anatol something of a construct rather than a person, and he does turn out a mixed-up chap, more in need of analysis than anybody. He yearns where he is despised, rails when he is devotedly loved, and ultimately marches off to a marriage from which he expects little pleasure, mainly to spite his most recent mistress. That young lady is not one to take desertion lying down, so to speak, and the walls quiver with her shrieks while the crockery flies. Karen Kondan, who plays this part, should be in superb mental health for a long time.

Several of the other girls leave indelible impressions—on the audience if not on the fickle Anatol—the wonderful moon-calf expression on the hypnotized Hilda (Linda Boblitt) as she waits for the question Anatol cannot nerve himself to ask; the glorious red hair of Elsa (Mary Pattie) that outweighs any silliness she is required to perform beneath it. And there is a scene with oysters, acted by Corliss Nickerson, that ranks in its own way with the oyster classic in the movie version of "Tom Jones." Instead of a prelude to love, however, the supper in "Anatol" is a postlude, or more accurately a mop-up operation, and it goes forward so heartily that we should fear for the actress's figure if the play had a long run!

The figures of all the ladies, incidentally, are lovingly detailed in gowns designed by Miss Nickerson in a modified Merry Widow style. Complemented by Shirley Eoff's extravagant hats, the long, elegant, and thoroughly sexy dresses subtly reinforce Anatol's concept of all women as variations on a theme.

Anatol himself, played by Rick Morse, is a rich, handsome neurotic philanderer who takes himself and his loves very seriously. He talks incessantly of mad passion and desperate desire and essays an occasional embrace onstage, but his whole air is far more clinical than torrid. In fact his friend Max, played by George Shea, always diplomatic and solicitous, smoothing out Anatol's path and keeping his own mouth shut (and his cigar-box filled), just might have a private life that would make Anatol's look pale—but he doesn't talk about it. The momentary appearance of Max as an orchestra conductor during the play's prologue is a piquant touch.

If Anatol is the true protagonist in this play, it is entirely possible that like so many of Freud's patients he invented the whole series of relationships to suit his subconscious needs. But really, the girls are so vibrant and colorful that we would much rather keep them.

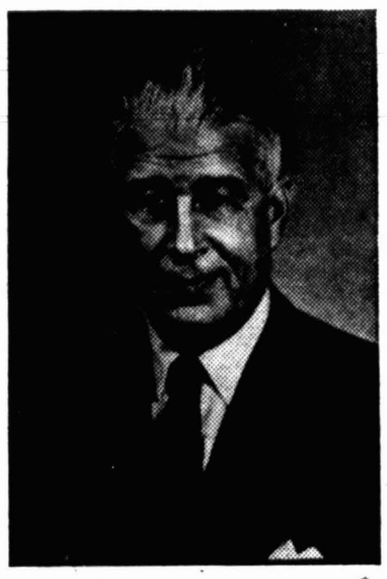
The changing of scenes, often a jarring note on a curtainless stage, is imaginatively handled by director Tom Gruenewald and facilitated by Joan Larkey's ingenious and versatile moving-tower set. A couple of impeccably-clad menservants do the heavy work, while an impudent pair of nymphs (really nymphets) toss the props in place and introduce the scenes.

The most noteworthy piece of scene-shifting, however, comes at the very beginning. After the brief, wordless prologue, four of Anatol's girls turn their shapely backs to the audience and strain their tight gowns as they shoulder the walls aside. Blink, and you will lose this moment, but it could be a breakthrough in style for stagehands. Ole!

Tree Planting Day Three Weeks Away

The Carmel Forestry Commission, last week, appointed two of its members, Gene Ricketts and Wallace Doolittle, to work with City Forester Hugh Smith in preparing a report for the city council on planting trees in sidewalk boxes or tubs. This is a possibility for areas, such as Dolores between Ocean and Seventh, where underground sewer and utility pipes leave no room for roots of trees on city land. Mr. Smith proposed the box or tub solution for this problem to the council on its tree tour meeting this month.

Also last week, the forestry commission set December 11 as the day when 1,000 pine and 500 Sierra redwood seedlings will be given, free, to residents who wish to help in the city's reforestation program.



Henry G. Curran, above, has been appointed to the Christian Science Committee on Publication for Northern California. He will represent more than 200 branch churches for the coming year in relations with public officials, the press and other groups. His office will be in San Francisco.

A graduate of Harvard University, also its business school, Mr. Curran was an advertising agency marketing and account executive until World War I. During the war, he was associated with the Office of Price Administration, the Veteran's Administration, the Marshall Plan and served as a lieutenant commander in the Navy.

From 1949-51 he was program administrator for the Marshall Plan in Paris and more recently was program manager for the U.S. Army's San Francisco Ordnance District. He withdrew from business activities in 1961 to devote his full time to the church's healing ministry.

Mr. Curran and his wife are frequent visitors to the Peninsula. Their son, Nicholas, formerly attended Robert Louis Stevenson School.

VIET NAM CONVOCATION ON SUNDAY

The Victory in Viet Nam Association of the Monterey Peninsula (VIVA) is sponsoring a convocation dedicated to the servicemen who have given their lives to freedom in previous wars and to those servicemen who are now fighting in Viet Nam. The convocation will be held at the steps adjoining the city council chambers in Monterey.

VIVA consists of a number of local college students who are deeply concerned with the vociferous minority who oppose the hostilities in Viet Nam.

Party Plans

By Phyllis Jervey

This year let's invite foreign exchange students to share a cosmopolitan Thanksgiving dinner in our homes. As Mr. Harold Nielsen said when he was host recently at Del Monte Lodge for the Carmel Wine Tasting Society, French wines go so perfectly with American turkey! So instead of cocktails why not serve wine and cheese in the living room during aperitif time?

THANKSGIVING DINNER
Cuvee Les Amours
or
Mouton Cadet Wines
Smoked Gouda and Danish
Tybo Cheese Cubes

Crab Cocktail with
Sweet-Sour Sauce
Celery Hearts . . . Ripe Olives
Preserved Chili Peppers
Roast California Turkey
Chestnut-Apple Dressing
Apricot-Stuffed Squash
Pimiento Brussels Sprouts
Marmalade Pumpkin Pie
Guatemala Coffee
Tavel-Chapoutier Vin Rose
throughout dinner

For honoring guests at home, the Alsatian Cuvee Les Amours-Pinot Blanc is a fine and exquisite all-purpose white wine. The Mouton Cadet is also a very pleasant white wine with an appealing flavor and bouquet. Small cubes of smoked Gouda and Danish Tybo cheese round out this international prelude to our Thanksgiving celebration. The vin rose served throughout the feast is the best known rose from the Rhone Valley. A delightful fresh wine is this Tavel-Chapoutier!

CRAB COCKTAIL WITH
SWEET-SOUR SAUCE
(Serves 8)

For the sauce: 1½ cups chili sauce; 1 cup mayonnaise; 2 tbsps. fresh lemon juice; 2 tsps. sugar; 1½ tsps. horseradish. Beat together until well blended. Pour over Monterey Wharf cooked fresh crabmeat or King Crabmeat. The legs are the most succulent. Serve well chilled in sherbet glasses lined with lettuce leaves as a first course.

CHESTNUT-APPLE DRESSING
(Enough for 12-lb. turkey)

¼ cup butter; ½ cup chopped onion; 1 cup chopped celery; ½ cup raisins; 4 cups chopped, pared apples; 6 cups fresh raisin bread cubes; 4 cups coarsely chopped chestnuts; 1 tbsp. salt; 1 tsp. cinnamon; ¼ tsp. allspice.

In hot butter in large skillet, saute onion and celery until tender, about 5 min. In large bowl, with fork lightly toss with remaining ingredients until well combined. Use 2 lbs. of chestnuts. With sharp knife, make a slit in each shell. Bake chestnuts at 500 F for 15 min. Remove shells and outer skin. Cover chestnuts with water; simmer, covered, 20 min. Drain and chop coarsely.

APRICOT STUFFED SQUASH

Cut 4 butternut or acorn squash in halves, remove seeds and fill cavities with canned apricot halves with syrup. Bake in moderate oven until squash is tender before cooking the turkey. Remove the bird 30 min. before carving and place on hot platter, cover with foil. During that time reheat squash, covered with foil, in oven. You may want to include white or sweet mashed potatoes. Giblet gravy is a must. Cranberry sauce is also traditional.

PIMIENTO
BRUSSELS SPROUTS
(Serves 8)

2 lbs. small fresh California brussels sprouts; 1 small jar pimiento strips; butter; salt and white pepper; freshly grated nutmeg.

Remove outer leaves and cut stems off sprouts. Soak in cold water 15 min. Lift from water with slotted spoon. Rinse in running water. Boil covered in salted water until just tender, about 30 min. Be sure they are bright green and still crisp. Drain. Add pimiento and seasonings to taste.

When you are preparing the pies add orange marmalade to taste before baking. Pass whipped cream and cottage cheese as a choice for topping.

In deference to our foreign guests, why not serve freshly roasted and ground Guatemala premium coffee? The aroma is so tantalizing!

Next week we will describe delectable and filling "College Casseroles" for the gay young crowd home from school for the holidays.

One Meeting Only For Planners During December

Yesterday afternoon, Carmel planners decided to meet only once next month, on December 15. On this date they will act on a use permit for a modern dance studio for Nancy Lang above the Mediterranean Market. A public hearing on this matter was held yesterday.

Action on a use permit for Jack Patterson to divide 33,200 square feet of the sand dune property he purchased from the estate of Elizabeth McClung White into four building sites will be taken at next month's meeting, too. Yesterday, Mr. Patterson and his attorney, Malcolm S. Millard, requested a continuance to study an easement required by the city for the development on the beach north of Ocean Avenue.

Howard Hunter was given permission to divide the former Corum Jackson property at Rio Road and Santa Lucia Street into three building sites with an access easement off Rio Road.

A letter from Kenneth Ehrman, an attorney, stated that a client of his was concerned with overnight and weekend parking of commercial vehicles in the residential district, presumably by owners and employees of business firms. Planning commissioners decided this was a matter for the city council to which a similar letter has been sent. Commissioners also decided that it was outside their province to take action on "relief" until next June for Mrs. Hanna Wangoe who, unknowingly, purchased one lot on Junipero between Alta and Vista which, illegally, has two buildings and two kitchens on it.

A letter from James Doud, owner of property on the north end of Red Eagle Alley, informed commissioners that his future plans include a building extending over the alley. Commissioners noted that any building permit for such development should include a condition providing for retention of the public right of way.

Commissioners instituted a new policy on the installation of signs. From now on, the installer must wait until the commission has approved any sign before putting it in place. Some signs, not approved by the commission's design review committee, have been illegally in place for several years. The building inspector and city attorney were asked to take steps to remove these violations.

Signs were approved yesterday for Kent of Carmel, Olof Dahlstrand, Wells Fargo Bank and Mission Cleaners. Denied was a sign for R. Davey. Awnings were approved for Kent of Carmel and La Bonita Barber Shop.

Howard Brunn this week announced the appointment of a new manager for "HB's wife," Carmel women's apparel shop. He is Frank Gallagher, formerly an executive for I. Magnin, also for Saks Fifth Avenue, in San Francisco.

Mr. Gallagher also had his own fashion design studio and is known for the outstanding fashion shows he produced for I. Magnin. However, he has always wanted to live and work in this area which his new position makes possible. He has taken a home in Carmel Meadows. His plans for the future include bringing to the "HB's wife" shop new and exciting lines of fine apparel.

Cub Scout Pack Award Ceremony

Carmel Cub Scout Pack Three, sponsored by the Carmel Lions Club since its formation in 1933, introduced new committee members at a recent meeting held in River School cafeteria. They are Paul G. Laux, Lieutenant Commander William Keith, Robert Wahl, Jay Criddle, and Kevin Walsh Jr., who is the leader of the new Webelos Den.

The following awards were presented: Ted Smith, Wolf Badge and gold arrow; Zachary Simpson, Wolf Badge and gold arrow; Randy Keith, Wolf Badge, gold arrow, and one silver arrow; Guy Allen, Wolf Badge; Chris Holl, Wolf Badge and gold arrow; Jon Benson, four silver arrows; Michael Wahl, Bear Badge, gold arrow; Kaese Pollard, Bear Badge, gold arrow and two silver arrows; Bill Whitesides, Bear Badge and gold arrow; Bruce Brown, Bear Badge and gold arrow; Scott Keith, Lion Badge, gold arrow and four silver arrows.

Mrs. R. K. Whitesides, Mrs. Stephen Grant, Mrs. Edwin Rudzis, Mrs. Robert Wahl, Mrs. C. Spencer and Mrs. Ray Benson are Den Mothers this year.

The Character of Carmel

Do Something! Get Busy!

TELL THE WORLD ABOUT CARMEL

Fifty years ago this week, the above headlines appeared on the front page of the Carmel Pine Cone.

"Carmel at that time had less than 500 inhabitants. Some estimates said 600, but that included the dogs. It was not till a year later that we reached the 500 minimum population necessary for incorporation as a city," Herbert Heron remembers.

Below is reprinted the story which went under the headlines.

"In Carmel, year in and year out, the business people and property owners, those who have houses for rent, have gone along in the summer fairly well satisfied with the business they have done and the length of time their houses have been rented.

"But about September 1, when the sojourners become fewer and receipts begin to fall off we hear that business is 'dull' and we receive letters asking 'Why is my house vacant?'

"The fault is right here. Very little attempt is made to inform the outside public and tourists that Carmel has the finest fall, winter and spring climate in the world.

"There should be as many people here the year through as there are in June, July and August.

"Hotel owners, owners of improved real estate property and merchants should cooperate in a plan to broadcast the advantages of Carmel as a year-round resort.

"If we sit back and wait for people and business to come, they never will come. If you want your cottage rented, your store busy, your hotel full, publicity is the thing to do it.

"In advertising, work one city at a time, one or two each month. Suppose, for instance, 5,000 attractive pamphlets were mailed to Pasadena and, as a result, 100 persons were induced to come here sooner or later. Suppose we worked ten cities. Well, we might not get 1,000 persons here, but we would get a large number.

"Get together and talk this matter over!"

County Proposes To Rezone Valley Mouth Commercial Land

Last Friday the Monterey County Planning Commission extended for a year the temporary zoning which permits industrial development at Moss Landing. This interim zoning was due to expire in January. It is in this area that the controversial Humble Oil refinery will be located.

The commission set January 26 as the date of a public hearing on the elimination from commercial zoning of two parcels of land at the entrance to Carmel Valley. One is approximately two and one-half acres, owned by Monterey Peninsula Associates, on the north side of Carmel Valley Road at the entrance to Carmel Knolls. The other is approximately two acres, owned by the state, south of Carmel Valley Road where it joins Highway One.

The rezoning of these two commercial parcels is being initiated by the county planning commission. Business use may now be made of both pieces of land, if owners obtain a building permit.

MUSSEL HUSTLE

For the 16th year, Mr. and Mrs. Howard S. Byrne held their annual Fall mussel hustle last week. Veterans Day, a holiday, was chosen as the date and the afternoon as the time for the event. At the previous low tide, Mr. Byrne accompanied by Lloyd Miller, Robert E. Smith and Mr. Smith's sons, Hans and Chris, gathered mussels off the rocks. These were taken in sacks to Reamer's Beach below Carmel Point and steamed in large cauldrons to be eaten, hot, with special sauces, also crusty French bread, prepared by Mrs. Byrne. Invited to the party were Mr. Byrne's fellow teachers at Carmel High School, other high school personnel and friends who eagerly anticipate the annual outdoor festivity.

THE LIVING ROOM is made cozy by a brick fireplace, walnut panelled walls and carpeted floors. The dining room is separate, has a fireplace, and opens to a sunny patio. There's also room to eat in the family kitchen. This house has 3 bedrooms, 2 baths and bearing fruit trees too,—and it's only $27,500.

AT LINCOLN AND 13TH (now there's a good place to live), you can check this house which you can't duplicate for the asking price of $42,500. It's panelled throughout, the kitchen is built-in, the large dining room, (don't sell your dining suite!) has a BBQ, and the 2 baths and 2 bedrooms are spacious (12x20 and 12x16). Sun deck and storage or shop space too!

ON THE RIM OF THE MESA is a house to see if you need 3 bedrooms, 2 baths and beauty inside and out. The valley views are dreamy and the master bedroom spoils you for anything less. The family room is ideally planned and there's a den separate from the rest of the house for getting away from it all,—(it has a bar, too!). The owner is anxious for you to see it at $43,500.

Candidate For Governor To Speak At Republican Women's Annual Meeting

George Christopher, past mayor of San Francisco for eight years and a recently announced candidate for Governor, will be guest speaker at the annual luncheon meeting of the Carmel Republican Women's Club at Highlands Inn on November 30. Mrs. Kenneth Macpherson, program chairman, will introduce Mr. Christopher.

The new slate of officers and directors for 1966 will be presented by Mrs. C. A. Mitchell, chairman of the nominating committee. They are Mrs. W. Lincoln Noelle, president; Mrs. Kenneth Macpherson and Mrs. Bryce Barnard, first and second vice presidents, respectively; Mrs. Steven Sassoon, recording secretary; Mrs. E. C. Cronwall, corresponding secretary; Mrs. O. W. Irwin, membership secretary; Mrs. J. L. Hughes, co-membership secretary; Mrs. Joy Crain, treasurer.

Directors are Mrs. Rody Holt, Mrs. Thomas McCullough, Mrs. Aidan Roark, Mrs. Robert Mackay Brown and Mrs. Annette Thorne.

The nominating committee consists of Mrs. Frederick Capen, Mrs. Mark Raggett, Mrs. C. A. Mitchell, Mrs. Rollo Payne and Mrs. William A. Sanford.

A social hour from noon to 1 p.m. will precede the luncheon which will be served promptly at one o'clock. Charge for the lunch is $3.00, tax and tip included. Reservations may be made by phoning Miss Marion Eley (375-6965) or Mrs. Giles Short (372-9026) no later than November 26. Members desiring transportation may call Mrs. John Rennels (624-2201).

Teachers From 18 Countries Will Visit Carmel High School

The international teacher development program provides a unique opportunity for creating an atmosphere of mutual understanding and respect among educators of the free world. After their arrival at office of education headquarters in Washington, D.C., the visiting educators are given a two-week orientation period and assigned in groups of 20 or so to colleges and universities around the United States.

They participate in group study seminars for 13 weeks in various specialized fields of education. After a two-week holiday and travel period at Christmas, the visiting teachers are assigned to a school community in another section and state in order to create a broader and more diversified experience. They make their homes with families during this part of their American experience.

The International Teacher Development program has brought more than 4,500 teachers and school officials, from 83 countries and dependencies, to the United States for training, in recognition of the fact that teaching is an international profession which can affect the lives and thinking of people around the world.

The visit of San Francisco State College's group of international teachers to the Monterey Peninsula is being co-ordinated by David Henry Gill, president of the World Affairs Council, and a council committee headed by Allman J. Cook. Committee members are Mrs. Howard Dabney and Fritz Hartung.

Reports Tonight On Community Church Building Campaign

The first report meeting of workers in the Community Church building fund campaign will be held this evening in the Carmel Red Cross chapter house, according to Carl J. Bosholm, chairman of the team organization in the fund raising for the non-denominational church.

On Monday evening when dinner was served to the workers in the El Estero Presbyterian Church in Monterey, Charles A. Herschleb, director of the campaign, spoke to an enthusiastic group commissioned for this undertaking in last Sunday's worship service.

Leo F. Miller is serving as chairman of the building fund campaign committee. Heading the four divisions of workers are leaders James B. Pruitt, Philip Livingston, co-leaders Howard E. Timbers and Ted Fehring, and for the youth division, Charles N. Pearson Jr.

The goal of the campaign, $130,000, plus other funds available, will provide for the first phase of the master plan for the church to be built near the entrance to Carmel Valley.

Editor's Column . . .

Mr. Edwards hopes, by exploring various fields of employment to motivate these dropouts towards a desire to learn and so equip themselves for gainful work. But his prime objective in regards to disenchanted students is to establish motivation for learning at an earlier age, thus preventing dropouts. Such a program will be costly to taxpayers and, therefore, apparently, last week, resulted in reluctance on the part of the board of education to embark on any experimental program.

But, already, taxpayers are paying for the state and federal educational program for dropouts. Disenchanted students who fall afoul of the law will add immensely to the taxpayers' burden. Those who swell unemployment ranks considerably will increase this load.

Even a small percentage of the 100 or so disenchanted students now at Carmel high who fall into the above categories will cost taxpayers more than the expense of specialized instruction.

But above all, education, as Mr. Edwards pointed out, is something for everyone. At present, it appears the Carmel Unified School District does not achieve this goal. When one considers, too, that the disenchanted students are in a public education system which is obligated to educate, as far as is humanly possible, every boy and girl who is enrolled in any one of its schools, the situation becomes more appalling.

It would seem, therefore, that Mr. Edwards' appeal for aid in helping disenchanted students by means of instruction which is not college-oriented, even though costly, might well be a wise investment of several thousands of dollars of taxpayers' money. There will be long-term gains . . . in taxes and human life. M.L.

STORM DAMAGE LIGHT

Damage from the current storm is practically non-existent, Superintendent of Streets and Public Works William L. Askew Jr., said this morning. On Tuesday, a city-owned acacia tree at Carmelo and Fourth fell and a branch, apparently, broke the windshield of a parked station wagon belonging to Mrs. Margaret Maillard. This was the only damage reported in the city during the high winds and over two-inch rainfall this week.

A Carmel resident, Mrs. William Ellis, wife of Captain Ellis of the Carmel Police Department, received a cut on her face yesterday afternoon on the Pacific Grove cut-off when a tall pine snapped and toppled on her car shattering the windshield.

Humble Oil Co. Intervenes In Legal Battle

Humble Oil and Refining Company began flexing its muscles this week in preparation for the legal tussle next Wednesday involving the Monterey County Board of Supervisors and the Six Cities Fund Committee.

A complaint and intervention was filed in Salinas on Monday by Humble's legal representative Paul Hammerly, in opposition to the writ of mandate filed October 19 against the board of supervisors by William Howard Church and Mrs. James Lyons, representatives of the Six Cities Fund Committee. A hearing on the writ of mandate action was scheduled for November 24 by Superior Court Judge Gordon Campbell.

The committee has been fighting the board's decision to allow Humble a use permit for a refinery at Moss Landing, and obtained more than 15,000 signatures on petitions asking the board to bring the matter to a referendum.

The write of mandate action which asks the court to determine whether the board acted in an administrative or legislative capacity, followed rejection of the petitions on legal technicalities by the board of supervisors.

Should the board's action in granting the use permit be found legislative, the court could order the board of supervisors to bring the issue to a vote of the people.

Arrayed against Mr. Church and Mrs. Lyons in next week's legal skirmish will be County Clerk Emmet McMenamin, the Monterey County Board of Supervisors and the Humble Oil and Refining Company. Successful intervention by Humble Oil would serve to nullify the grass roots attempt to bring the matter directly to the people by means of the petitions asking for a referendum.

CARMEL HIGH LOSES THE SHOE

There was rejoicing in Pacific Grove last Friday night after the football game played between the varsity teams of Carmel and Pacific Grove high schools. Carmel was defeated by a 26-18 score. As a result, for the first time in a decade, The Shoe, the trophy awarded to the victor, will be in the possession of Pacific Grove until it is reclaimed by a Carmel win. Pacific Grove also won the freshman preliminary game, 25-12, but Carmel conquered in the junior varsity contest with a 19-0 score.

Ocean Avenue Mall Idea Arises Again

during the early 1930s. Again, in the 1950s, the mall proposal was included in suggestions made by the citizens committee to Larry Livingston, professional planner hired by the city to draft a general plan. A mall and perimeter parking lots were included in the plan presented to the city council by Mr. Livingston. Opposition caused the council to eliminate the mall from the general plan adopted eight years ago. The problems of traffic and parking made the idea seem impractical, Mr. Adams stated.

The original concept of the mall was as a place where Carmel citizens could meet, visit and relax, not as a tourist or business attraction, he emphasized.

"Carmel citizens have always avoided 'gimmicks' for the purpose of attracting tourists and business. Carmelites have traditionally felt that the town is a living, growing, vital entity which they found the most desirable place in the world in which to live. If others found these characteristics attractive and wanted to visit the village, Carmelites welcomed them but did not solicit the tourist as such," Mr. Adams report concluded.

Carvel Baldwin, a Carmel citizen in the audience, told the commission that traffic problems incident to a mall might be solved by using motel tax greenbelt funds to purchase rundown properties adjacent to the commercial zone and converting this land into public parking.
